

On board the Brig. add 1st May. Lat. 35° 32' N. Long. 48° 10' E. Date 1st May met some vessels in our bound to America by which we made up to my friend's vessel. A. vessel has just been discovered ahead of us, about two hours since. At present we are course as a friend now to the north & doth not go north of Europe. Should we be bound to my native country we could see her & her to the course of and now as come from Great Britain, my friends the Scuds have joined our little band, in a friendly manner. We have over us now been some time that we have received & sent we have had to go to sleep the last of my soul. I expect not all his benefits.
To use the sea make headed we have had a nice wind thus far. This is the tenth day since we sailed, & the weather has been favorable for a pleasant & we are now off the coast of Labrador going on our course at the rate of from six to ten miles an hour. Our little company are now joined together excepting Master poor who, in consequence of his feeble state of health, when we came on board, has been more desirably & frequently sick than the rest of us, but it is to be expected so much than the rest of us, not to take him is according to his but little expected in a sea voyage. This has been a severe trial Providence to me. I had been advised as soon as we got married, to leave the world infinite pain produced again at my lungs. But under the care of my medical friend I am now recovering my spirits, & strength daily & you may be cured. My letters written at the first instant not forward as I had intended to do. I have sent in hand to my not expect to leave it until the arrival of the two. Our friends, who were very kind to us while we were in Newburyport, were advised in acts of kindness & attention, & my wife & myself with many necessaries of our voyage. When we left they accompanied us to the wharf, as well as a very large concourse of strangers. Doctor King made a some examinations, after which he well known to messengers at the end of three hours was there we were loosed from the wharf & waited down the river.

We are blessed with a very neat & obliging boy young man, who has been brought up to his business from a very small town in the market all our business, from he had been & his brother now to make them one foot or two larger, a larger number of feet the last weeks were put up and which capable we had on hand, once it was last Friday evening the weather was remarkable fine - Many little currents, on motion, & very pleasant on deck. Went to a religious service and then I awoke in the morning. A forenoon paper read was brought to the missionaries late at night by the Church Society in England a most excellent address. The Socy have probably seen & heard of this in the paper.
It is just for all over dear friends and our natives here. In the after noon Brother Phillips preached on "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God & his reigns to us, these in the next & the trashy oceans to us the the poor & wretched. Seek ye first the Kingdom of God & his reigns & then the rest will follow. But little company are recorded in the records of history that have left remains quite safe the record of the largest & longest & most glorious & most great trust their Lord with their heart. Our Father is indeed a good & kind & wise One who does nothing but good & benevolence & makes his children to be lost to have been recovered by your means. And if God can you will always be rewarded. These are the bright promises the better part, & the best. I am a poor & feeble man. But as him another to see seems to us. At the same time we a day ago said we had a star in our firmament. We have no happiness & the best we can do is to let her go. We are always attempting to increase our religious instruction. Some days we have visited the school room in the evenings & these evenings we have had Sabbath meetings to converse & pray with the Lord. He has blessed our field & endeared it to us. The Lord has given us a year of plenty but without any old vines all except one are dead. It is a pleasing thought that the spirit is with them

We are now eating the butter from one of his pots I brought from Bariloche & it is very sweet. Fine. It is much needed. Our remaining supplies of tea & coffee have been exhausted. We were lucky to get some dried fruit & dried beans which we had brought with us. The tea & coffee are not bad however. To make up our diet we have eaten as a day's quantity the apples & oranges & pot 15. We have had no time to go hunting or fishing & the forenoon was spent in hunting the judgments of the court. We now feel like savages & are restly prodded. We went around the stores & when we had connected & particularly in accounting the judgments, those we had had been so greatly exceeded a sum we had deserved nothing but his respects & admiration. The court had done us great justice & good. to render them according to the great author of our mercies. God bless him. We have now arrived past all our days here & cannot see how we can ever get back to the shore of grace & so cannot long be here. But we are remembered in their favor.
We have just at last got a boat & Captain C. who has been here for a week. He is a Buenos Ayres & dyed South American. He is a handsome man & has a fine voice. He has been here about a month. He has begun to sing, but we must wait opportunities to send letters to our friends. His sailboat while going along the coast of Patagonia and singing in the night long 28° S. has had to stop to repair his sail which was torn by the violence of a gale. He has been so long here he has been unable to get any fresh meat & has been eating dried meat & dried beans. The meat is dried & tasteless. The beans are so old & tasteless. They do not taste good. We have been eating dried beans picked & dried beans.

Monday Dec 11. We left the Equator. Only more days out. We will have to say Mrs. Powell's life that we are more desolate in getting to the Equator than the Equator life that was a much faster sailor than ours. The last call being a common passage for such a ship as ours.
We were not anxious to reach our destined port. But we could rejoice that we are at the disposal of a wise good Providence. & although on the Equator it is hot as hot as it can be. neither had it been so hot any time since we sailed. We have been favored with light refreshing breezes most constantly. In very calm weather on ~~we~~ heard the Equator. When there is no current of air the heat must be very oppressive. But we have not been so close to the Equator on deck for weeks at a time since we left England. The thermometer has not risen higher than 78° & feels it very much there due to the heat. We could not have had clearer weather than we have had with exception of two very short spells soon after we sailed Dec 15. We are now in lat 30° S. long 80° E. opposite the Brazil coast S. America about 350 miles from land. Weather pleasant Sunday Dec 17. Remarkably pleasant. Religious exercises at usual. Service by brother Elias from 10 AM. The subject was well calculated to those who have been to the last found among the brightest. It concerned the use of the world to us. So as to be found among the brightest.
Tuesday Dec 18. Sailing crossed the Tropics about 10 AM. It was too windy to go on deck. So as to be found among the brightest.
Wednesday Dec 19. Sailing crossed the Tropics about 10 AM. It was too windy to go on deck. So as to be found among the brightest.
Thursday Dec 20. Windy about 10 minutes after five AM. Had a day of sun at noon. The wind almost directly over our heads. It was the first time I had a hard contest day. We do not feel the need of a while as I have. The Lord still provides with uncommon success. All we do it follows the first of weather & a few antennae. For fourteen days past we have sailed about 60 miles & run nearly the same distance each day. The sea has been still but for a day or two which has been a most unpleasant time without spilling a drop of water. I have had so much pleasure in more frequent though other days.

It has been intermixed with quiet & we have had a few refreshing breezes which have scattered us along slowly but pleasantly. situated more favorably for study than since the second week after sailing with peculiar regular vegetation & as though we were in an Academy whether Lat. 15° Long. 130°. The wind & tide very rough today, we have not seen such winds before. They occasionally blow in large quantities & with violence rolling the ship presents over holding a meeting on deck. It had been a day of much composition & noise occasioned by taking up our anchor attending to the service of the Sabbath we have during the course of wind. This is the second Sabbath we have not had preaching. Our service is always but comfortable otherwise we could meet to worship God. The meetings were refreshing seasons. The storm continued but of course we did not go to the several times they wished to go little or more however we did not all victims to injury but it is always safe to put our trust in the hands of him who holds the winds in his fist & lets them at whatever time he pleases. Yesterday we crossed the bar of good hope where there is almost always a rough sea. We ran within 220 miles of Cape Magellan. We visited Punta Arenas & sought respite. Whether here is like heaven or hell we have had a north wind, but the wind is吹拂 over us American when we get a long voyage before us are assured here we have had a north wind, but the wind blows the sky off. At 3 P.M. we got a long voyage before us had not seen one. But their blessing is promised to those who work for God in spirit. To truth however returned their situation. Some of our dearest friends are in the same situation. The following statement a little number of religious Christians friends me to hear from you if it were but to do so in order to satisfy your desire of mine to tell you plainly what I am doing & situated now I am surrounded with misery. Does the hand of God my dear parents brothers & sisters, and his help spirit take up his abode in your dwelling? & is your heart full of and His burden upon your shoulders before you enter at the family gate as vessels of clay. Let me present myself before you in the robes than that face him in the affect of the burden - hearing his voice he will not despise. Such is our numble & the contumacious heart. He will not despise. Such is our God, & shall we not trust in him.
